I am an EU-based professional software designer/architect and system administrator, who also works on various opensource projects (no advertising here).

My current specialities include:

- High-level and/or real-time embedded C/C++
- C#, Java, PHP, PERL and .NET programming
- Database design

I am actively involved in:

- Web application and website design.
- Server systems administration.
- Network installation.

I started using Tikiwiki for my personal websites, found and fixed a bug and figured I should help to carry the flag. I am attempting to help with adding new features and fixing bugs (normally mine so far, but I hope to improve).
