

UserPagemchurchward

Hi.

I've been a software developer since the days of punch cards (yes, some of us survived).

I began my career building flight maintenance trainers and simulators. Later, with the advent of the Internet, I moved into new media. Now, I'm mostly active in web application development, using PHP, JSP and other appropriate languages.

I am also an aspiring (in my mind) writer, and have spent a lot of time trying to merge both loves.